Thoughts on Religious Life:

Think of a bright, energetic, sparkling person and you have Sister Colombiere. She truly has a twinkle in her eye and bubbles over with enthusiasm for being alive and ready to celebrate 75 years of being a member of the Congregation of Sisters of St. Agnes.

"I thank God for the wonder of my being, for my loving parents and for all I have received in my lifetime," shared Sister Colombiere. "I came to the convent to help spread the kingdom of God, to do my part to educate children, to bring them to know and love God," (quote from article from St. Florian's Parish Newsletter-5/1997)

After many years of teaching throughout the Midwest and in Yonkers, New York, Sister Colombiere is retired and enjoys her time in prayer, baking, and staying active.
