Thoughts on Religious Life:

My lifelong commitment as a vowed woman religious finds meaning in mission and in community. Joined with others in community to continue Jesus' mission according to the purpose and spirit of the founders of our congregation, our energy and efforts are magnified and we are greater than the sum of our parts.

Mission is expressed in both ministry and community. I am grateful for the supportive and challenging aspects of my community experiences over the past 40 years as we have been about being and building community. My ministry experiences have taken me to various places in richly diverse contexts. In my ministries I have seen the face of the divine in students, sisters, clients and in co-workers alike.

I am grateful for the support I receive from family and friends as I live my call as a vowed woman religious.
