Thoughts on Religious Life:

Being a member of the Congregation of Sisters of St Agnes has been a tremendous blessing and has provided numerous opportunities to experience religious life in a global community. I have had the privilege of participating in conferences of women religious in North America, Central America, South America, and Europe. The passion for serving the poor and vulnerable is constant across these many communities and the experiences have enriched my understanding of role of women religious in the Church and in the world today. In the words of our CSA Constitutions, we continue to serve those whose “faith life and human dignity is threatened in any way”.
