Congregation of Sisters of St. Agnes Promoting Justice, Building Community

Dear Friends,

Greetings as we begin a new year, a year of transition for the Sisters of St. Agnes. I would like to take this opportunity to reflect on what sponsorship has meant to CSA. Agnesian HealthCare and Monroe Clinic have been woven into the fabric of CSA's history. In 1896, with the construction of St. Agnes Hospital, Mother Agnes opened the door to health care as a ministry of the Sisters of St. Agnes. In 1939, Mother Aloysia furthered this ministry by opening St. Clare Hospital, now Monroe Clinic. These health care services have greatly expanded over the past 121 years, providing services to people and to areas that would otherwise be without health care. Only with wonderfully skilled partners in ministry has so much been able to evolve.

While we have been focused on the transition of the CSA health care ministries, we wish to acknowledge the growth and creativity of Marian University which we continue to sponsor. From a college housed in areas of the former St. Agnes Convent, Marian University now has a great footprint of its own in Fond du Lac, with expansion areas in Appleton and Milwaukee.

These significant ministries in health care and education are gifts to the communities in which they are located, and are grace into the future. These ministries were entrusted to CSA by the Church, and we have held them in trust since their founding. We, too, like the founders of each ministry, must be responsive to the signs and needs of the times. Prayer and discernment have led to the decision in faith that God is calling us to let go of what we love. Because of the complexity of the social and cultural context in which we live, this is the best time to enable the evolution of the sponsorship of our health care ministries. Only if we love, can we let go. Because we love, it is painful to let go. This is bitter-sweet for our sisters, especially those who have served for a significant part of their lives at Agnesian HealthCare, Monroe Clinic, and St. Francis Home.

We know that now is the time to entrust to someone else what has been entrusted to us by the Church. It is time to make way for a broader and deeper form of sponsorship, a form made possible by the transfer of our beloved ministries to SSM Health, a ministry that shares our values and our commitment to Catholic health care and provides the structures needed for 21st century Catholic health care.

Our 2017 Chapter called us to face our future with honesty and hope as we make decisions regarding the stewardship of our resources. We give thanks to Agnesian HealthCare and Monroe Clinic for all that has been accomplished through them. The mission we share with SSM Health provides the foundation on which a "future full of hope" will flourish. We know that the mission of Jesus continues as our ministries interweave with the needs and realities of the 21st century. With gratitude for all that is yet to be, we advance, gifted and graced by our loving God.

In the peace and love of Christ,

Sister Jean Steffes, CSA

BY SISTER MARY NOEL BROWN, CSA
EXECUTIVE LEADER OF SPONSORSHIP

As families and friends gathered to celebrate the dawn of a new year at the stroke of midnight on January 1, 2018, the Congregation of Sisters of St. Agnes (CSA) embraced a new beginning of another kind. As the hours and minutes of 2017 faded away, so, too, did CSA's congregational involvement in the ministry of health care that spanned more than 120 years. When the clock struck twelve, heralding the beginning of 2018, Agnesian HealthCare and Monroe Clinic became part of SSM Health of St. Louis.

A few days later, on a frigid January 4, members of CSA, representatives from SSM Health Ministries, and leaders from SSM Health, gathered in Fond du Lac and Monroe to commemorate the momentous occasion. The sub-zero external temperatures paled in comparison to the warmth and gracious hospitality of Agnesian HealthCare and Monroe Clinic leaders and employees. Experiencing a sea of emotions, employees, providers, and board members spoke of the gift and grace of their relationship with Sisters of St. Agnes, their gratitude for being part of CSA's legacy of health care, and their embrace of becoming part of SSM Health.

Sister Jean Steffes, CSA, general superior of CSA, commented that "although today signals the start of a new beginning, the

Franciscan Sisters of Mary

In 1872, five sisters from Germany arrived in St. Louis, MO, with the intention of living lives of consecrated service to God by caring for the sick and the poor. They built hospitals, nursing homes, and other healthcare facilities throughout the Midwest and South. They chose to open these hospitals where access to health care was sorely lacking, often in economically distressed communities comprised of large numbers of people living in poverty. As the religious community grew, sisters were sent to open missions in Brazil and Peru, as well as to establish a Birthing Center to serve poor families in southeastern Texas at the Mexican border.

Though health care has changed considerably since the founding of the congregation, the compass of compassionate presence to suffering persons, lives on in the innumerable lay partners-in-ministry. By 1986, the leadership of the Congregation recognized the need to plan for the future of their sponsored ministries. They placed the leadership of their ministries into the hands of capable lay people who had the same passion “to bring the healing presence and love of God to those in need.” This became the foundation upon which SSM Health was created.

— Concluding prayer, CSA General Chapter, June 2017

When the Sisters of St. Agnes founded Marian College in 1936, there was no crystal ball to see what Marian University would become eighty-one years later. The sisters, however, did give birth to a tiny college for the education of the sisters that would later spread the torch of faith to hard-working first-generation students. The college sought to create an environment where students could develop their unique gifts through rigorous academic pursuits, service, and commitment to social justice.

The five sisters currently ministering at Marian University recently shared some reflections on three questions:

What does it mean for the Sisters of St. Agnes to sponsor Marian University?

CSA is committed to ongoing sponsorship of Marian where the mission and values of the congregation continue to be fostered. Students are challenged to engage in the world and become men and women in the service of others, especially the most vulnerable and disadvantaged members of society.

How are CSA's legacy and mission lived out on a day-to-day basis?

Today, guided by the gospel of Jesus, we continue CSA's legacy of mission and ministry. Academic offerings at both the undergraduate and graduate levels exemplify this. Policies and procedures reflect Catholic teachings and values. Our legacy is also lived out through promoting diversity, providing tuition assistance, and in the day-to-day activities such as: opportunities for prayer, worship, and retreats, community service, book club discussions, food pantry, and social events that foster community-building.

How can friends support CSA's mission and legacy for the future?

We invite you to support CSA's mission and legacy in a variety of ways: visit the campus, enjoy coffee at Common Grounds, attend Mass with students on Sunday evenings, volunteer in the Campus Ministry food pantry, partner in prayer with a student, attend university events, invite to your home students who cannot go home during holidays, open your place of employment to students for internships or full-time work, become a volunteer tutor...

Together we will pass on the torch of faith, God's mission, and the CSA legacy at Marian University!

healing mission of the Church continues. The sisters trust that Agnesian HealthCare and Monroe Clinic will continue their legacy of healing through the larger SSM Health family.” “We sought a sponsor,” Sister Jean shared, “whose mission and culture fits Agnesian and Monroe. We believe that SSM does, and that will serve our patients, residents, and loved ones well.”

Referencing the Franciscan heritage of SSM Health, Laura Kaiser, president and CEO, noted that St. Francis of Assisi “was always new, always fresh and always beginning again. Today,” continued Laura, “we honor this tradition in a new way – by joining together for those we serve.”

Almost two weeks later, shortly after the feast of St. Agnes, representatives of SSM Health, including the executive leaders of the newest members of SSM Health - Monroe Clinic and Agnesian HealthCare – joined members of CSA at St. Agnes Convent in Fond du Lac.

In a ritual commemorating the transfer of sponsorship, Sister Jean Steffes presented Jennifer Grantham Stein, a member of SSM Health Ministries, with a lantern, reminiscent of Mother Agnes Hazotte, a foundress of CSA. Sister Jean shared her desire that the light of the lantern, which symbolizes the light of Christ within each of us, may always emanate from the heart of each person associated with SSM Health and that this same light of Christ may always shine brightly within the halls, patient care rooms, and board rooms of each SSM Health facility.

In presenting Sr. Kathy Buchheit, FSM, with a second symbol, a crystal plaque with a heart linked with CSA’s cross, Sister Mary Noel Brown explained, “The design represents the congregation’s desire to always connect at the level of the Sacred for the sake of mission. We give this to you as a sign of the transfer of our beloved ministries and ask that you pray with us, that we may move forward together with gift, grace, and gratitude.”

SSM Health attendees then participated in a missioning ceremony and a renewal of commitment to the values of SSM Health - values which are already deeply rooted within the culture and lives of those associated with Agnesian HealthCare and Monroe Clinic.

The ritual closed with 24 Alleluias resounding throughout the chapel. Filled with mixed emotions, the Sisters of St. Agnes sang their prayerful response that reflected their desire to move forward with SSM Health with gift, grace, and gratitude.
