STORIES OF MISSION
& MINISTRY

CSA

Congregation of Sisters of St. Agnes Promoting Justice, Building Community

Dear Friends,

The year 2020 brings us the gift of an extra day. Time is such a fluid commodity, and as such often passes into memory before we become aware of its passing. As part of our spiritual journey, we are often encouraged to be present to the present moment. And yet, time is always fleeting. Even with the promise of an extra day, we recognize that we cannot hold on to the moments we are given. What are we to do with this reality? Pope Francis gave us a beautiful set of phrases with which we can frame our lives. In a reflection written when proclaiming a year to celebrate consecrated life, he stated:

Look to the past with gratitude...

Live the present with passion...

Embrace the future with hope...

During 2020, the Sisters of St. Agnes look to the past with gratitude on the 150 years since our community moved from Barton to Fond du Lac. Ministries in healthcare and education have created a legacy of healing, learning, and sharing of gifts that endures. In the present, our sisters serve in a host of social, spiritual, pastoral, educational and healing ministries – in full-time, part-time and volunteer roles – to partner with others in responding to the needs of those people whose faith life or human dignity is in any way threatened. Looking to the future while serving in locations across the United States and in Nicaragua, the community continues to trust in God who accompanies us every step of the way as we commit ourselves to witness of life, care of creation, and communal discernment.

Even though we know we have been gifted with a past, present, and future, in the presence of God time seems to stand still leading us to a recognition of a reality larger than that in which we find ourselves. How fitting then to close this reflection with words we pray regularly in our morning prayers: “God, creator of unfailing light, give that same light to those who call to you. May our lips praise you, our lives proclaim your goodness, our work give you honor, and our voices celebrate you forever.” Whether we have the gift of an extra day or not, we have a past, present, and future for which we can be eternally grateful.

In the peace and love of Christ,
Sister Jean Steffes, CSA
General Superior

Crossing the Threshold

*T*hresholds are sacred places marking the end of one thing and the beginning of another. Walking through a doorway for the first time often demands courage, trust, and a mindset of discovery. These were the qualities six associates took with them on a pilgrimage to visit several Sisters of St. Agnes working with immigrants, asylum seekers, and migrants on the Arizona border.

They began their experience in Bisbee where they met with Sisters Susan Kolb, Christi Ann Laudolff, Mary Rose Obholz, and Kathy Cook who staff the non-profit organization We Are One Family/Somos La Misma Familia. As a group, these four sisters each specialize in various services for the border community, such as immigration law assistance, holistic health, and spiritual direction. They nurture justice and reconciliation among all people, especially those whose faith life and human dignity are threatened. During this time, the associates were given a chance to cross the border in Mexico, see the tents where asylum seekers await their turn to enter the US, listen to the story of a refugee whose daughter was still awaiting trial, participate in a prayer walk, and visit with the Mexican Consulate.

After four days in the Bisbee area, the associates journeyed to a Federal Courthouse in Tucson to watch the streamlined deportation procedure that provided a twenty-second court trial for each person. “The process left us perplexed and ashamed ... what a dehumanizing process,” said Associate Mary Beth Nienhaus. While still reeling from what they had seen, they met with Sisters Eileen Mahony and Nancy Chow for dinner. They found hope in Sister Nancy’s stories of joys and challenges working with the Pima Vocational High School which offers students a second chance to get a real high school diploma while receiving employment skills training. Their hearts were again filled with hope the next two days as they toured St. Elizabeth Health Center, a comprehensive medical clinic serving low-income communities where Sister Eileen works as a nurse practitioner, and when they were able to work with 42 just-arrived asylum seekers at Casa Alitas, the Tucson-based respite center.

Associate Kelly Robe reflected on staying positive even when you can’t take direct action to fix injustice, “Part of social justice work is listening to people. Standing in solidarity with others. Being a witness to suffering and injustice and allowing it to transform us from the inside out. ... For those of us who feel called to be light bearers, we must stay light-filled.”

Carol Braun, Director of Associate Relationship, knows that each associate on the pilgrimage has crossed a threshold into a new understanding of self and the world:

“We are emboldened by our experiences to leave our comfort zones and to listen to the inner voice calling us forward. ... My wish is that this pilgrimage with its gifts and learnings will empower us, and those with whom we have shared our story, to be people of reconciliation and hope.”
