HOW CSA CHARISM INSPIRES ME

It has guided me in my openness to the ministries God has provided in my life. It is a compass for my interactions with others. It is a reminder that the love of God touches all parts of our lives.

STORIES FROM MINISTRY

There can't be only one story that affirms a lifelong commitment as a vowed religious in CSA. It's a continuation of events and people that affirm a lifetime. Lives I've touched and lives that have touched me. Without my commitment to God and CSA, I would not have been in a position to know these people:

- The mother who turned to me for safety for her daughter, when in an abusive situation and a CSA community willing to help.
- The high school freshman who came to tell me that he was carrying drugs to make money and wanted me to help him stop.
- A family who called for help as the father was dying .
- Parents who came in to talk about their children and needed to talk about other family issues.
- CSA has helped form me throughout all my years and helped make me a person who was able to be of service and be served in these and many more situations.

WORDS OF ADVICE

Remember that first of all it is the mission of Jesus, and we are privileged to carry it out through our charism. Together as a community we are able to reach out to "those whose faith life and human dignity are threatened" ... always remembering that we "are enriched by those we serve." We are strengthened by the life we share together and the relationship we form with God. We receive the love of God and share the love of God.

A BLESSING TO SHARE

The sisters I have come to know and love since my time in formation to the present day are a blessing. I treasure each one. The people I have been privileged to know through ministry have been a blessing to me. And most importantly the relationship God has formed with me is a tremendous blessing.
